

About the book

Almost 240 years ago, two groups of immigrants from different places, speaking different languages, and having different cultures ultimately come together in the inhospitable swamps and along the murky waters of Bayou Lafourche. Will their differences create an environment of conflict and strife, or will their shared faith bring them together?

Follow the journey of these courageous and resilient people as they live off the land and face life's challenges. Along the way, you will come to know the fascinating history of these two cultures and the vastly different circumstances that brought them together.

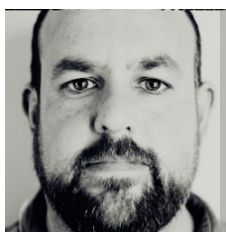

Audience

Readers of all ages will enjoy this easy to read book which will undoubtedly shed new light to those both familiar and unfamiliar with Louisiana history. Filled with interesting details, the book makes a great gift for anyone interested in history, Acadians, and Isleños.

Purchasing Details

Available at independent booksellers, Amazon.com, and select shops. For presentations, media, or bulk orders please email me@chadleblanc.com.

US $14.95 | ISBN: 979-8843433918 | 5" x 8" | Soft cover, Perfect bound, 324 pages

About the Author: Chad LeBlanc is an amateur historian, genealogist, writer, and IT professional. He holds multiple high-level IT certifications and has an endless curiosity about Louisiana history. LeBlanc resides in Gonzales, Louisiana.